

SHERIFF STOPS PAY OF CHAMBERLAIN

University Professor Has His Christmas Check Held Up by Garnishee.

As a result of the judgment entered in favor of Professor Ira D. Cardiff in the sum of $350, December 16, the salary of Professor R. V. Chamberlain has been garnished by Cardiff's attorney, Benner X. Smith, and the faculty of the University of Utah has been directed by Sheriff Emery to hold up the Christmas check of the medical department mentor.

The action of the sheriff is the outgrowth of a suit brought against Chamberlain by Cardiff, who alleged that the former, in a letter, had promised him a position with a salary of from $2000 to $2250 the year before he came West and that he was able to procure only $1650 upon his arrival at Salt Lake City. The action was to recover the difference between the amounts, and it was decided in his favor.

Sentiment among the members of the faculty concerning the conduct of Professor Cardiff is divided. Many deplore the fact that all is not amicable in the medical department and others say the garnisheeing of Professor Chamberlain's salary was unnecessary in that the latter had not refused to honor the judgment.

One professor expressed great surprise that such an action should be taken following the suit when it was known that Professor Chamberlain would not try to avoid paying the judgment or that he intended to appeal the case. He declared he would send his personal check to Mrs. Chamberlain, in order that the Christmas of her children might not be spoiled in the absence of her husband, who has left the city on a short trip.

Professor Cardiff says simply that he placed the matter in the hands of an attorney two months ago.

WORK AT UNIVERSITY FOR 1907 IS FINISHED.

A special Christmas musical programme constituted the chapel exercises held at the university Friday morning. The university choir, led by Squire Coop and Mr. Williams, furnished the music.

School work for 1907 ceased at the university Friday afternoon. The closing days of the week were enlivened by a series of stiff examinations, and a sangerfest held Thursday evening. In many ways the work done during the part of the first semester has passed has been highly successful, both along the lines of student activities and the character of school work done.

Nearly all of the out-of-town students left for their homes Friday afternoon and evening. The remainder left Saturday, special Christmas rates over the railroads making the return home possible for many who lived at distant points.

Dr. John Sundwall of the medical department left Friday for Chicago, where

Thinks Salt Lake Affords Fine Opportunity for the Young Man

ROSS C. DAVIS.

Ross C. Davis became a member of the Capital Real Estate Investment company shortly after its incorporation, about two years ago. He now has charge of the department of that firm which deals with business opportunities. Mr. Davis became a member of the Real Estate association in the spring of 1907. Although a comparative newcomer in the real estate field, Mr. Davis finds ample opportunity for the placing of small amounts of capital in business.

He will attend the annual convention of the American Institute for the Advancement of Science.

Professor Byron Cummings, dean of the school of the arts and sciences, left Saturday for Chicago to attend the annual meeting of the American Archaeological association, which is to be held during the latter part of the Christmas vacation. Professor Cummings is secretary of the Utah Archaeological society.

both in Salt Lake and in the surrounding towns.

In fact, this feature of the real estate trade has grown enormously during the past two years, Mr. Davis says, and indicates a constant influx of capital to the city in small amounts. Mr. Davis came here in September, 1903, and by his energy and activity has already won himself an excellent position in his line and he feels that the city holds out the best of opportunities for the young man with a small capital to build up a good business.

UTAH MUST HUSTLE OR FALL BEHIND

Prof. Northrup Addresses the Salt Lake County Horticultural Society.

Professor Northrup of the Agricultural college delivered an interesting address upon "Commercial Fruit Raising" before the Salt Lake County Horticultural society, in the City and County building, Saturday afternoon.

Professor Northrup declared that fruit growers should educate themselves in the science of fruit raising if they wished to keep in the front rank of fruit-raising States. Other wise, he said, Utah, which is one of the greatest fruit-raising States in the Union, would be left behind.

The speaker advised proper cultivation of orchards, together with pruning and thinning, and cited the progress made by fruit growers in Bear River valley, where more than 100,000 trees have been planted within the past few years. Professor Northrup predicted that this valley would in time become one of the greatest fruit-producing regions in the West.

President J. N. Fisher of East Mill Creek also made a brief but interesting address. At the next meeting, which will be held on the third Saturday in January, the annual election of officers will be held.

FEELS WELL YET DYING

Many a man believing he is well has gone to an insurance company only to be told by the examining physician to put his affairs in order as he has only a few months to live due to advanced kidney disease. Thus, many people do not even know they have kidney trouble.

If you know it you have had notice. No matter how well you feel or look if you have kidney trouble don't feed it with delay. As above, it may be already chronic. Hence, the necessity for taking at the start the only thing known that reaches it in both the first and chronic forms. There is one successful treatment and we sent it.

The census shows that 55,000 deaths the last census year were from a disease of the kidneys that was absolutely incurable up to the discovery of this treatment. It also shows that over nine-tenths of all the census cases, sooner or later, assumed this one form. How under the sun then can people who have kidney trouble afford to take anything but the only known specific for the serious forms?

If you have kidney trouble start right. We will give you full information.

BANKERS EXPRESS OPINIONS ON COMPTROLLER'S STATEMENT

The presidents of four National banks of Salt Lake were asked for expressions of opinion regarding the statement made by William B. Ridgeley, comptroller of currency, in his recent report to the effect that the necessary elements of elasticity required in our currency system and the improvements to the reserve system could "be satisfactorily accomplished only through the establishment by the Government of a central bank of issue and reserve."

Lewis S. Hills, of the Deacet National bank, said:
"By a central bank of issue and reserve, I understand that Mr. Ridgeley meant a bank primarily for bankers, a place where the present reserves which are now kept in the vaults of the reserve banks would probably be kept and which would be able to issue money backed by the Government to relieve any financial stringency that might occur. Such a bank could, of course, issue money at any time without affecting the credit of the Government, a thing which would be impossible by the National banks at the present time. I should think that such a bank would be just the sort of thing required and would be most effective if it could be kept out of politics."

James E. Coggriff, of the Commercial National bank, said:

"Something ought to be done to make the currency more elastic, but there are so many different ideas of just what course should be taken that it is difficult to decide what is the best. If Mr. Ridgeley means the establishment of a National bank, it would probably be a good thing. I should be in favor of anything that would give permanent relief, yet I do not feel certain whether the ability of the Government to expand the currency at will would be a good thing or not. The American business man has a habit of investing up to the limit of his finances and there would be a danger if the currency were expanded as soon as stringency occurred that business would be expanded a little more, so that in a little while there would be additional expansion of the currency required. The bill introduced into Congress a while ago by Senator Fowler provided for an expansion of currency by means of issues of money backed by the assets of the National banks. Nothing ever came of this, but there has since been a good deal of discussion on the subject. In the recent suggestion of the comptroller there is a little of the Rooseveltian idea of centralization and I should suppose that it would meet with a good deal of opposition."

W. S. McCormick, of McCormick & Co., said:

"I cannot understand just what Mr. Ridgeley means by his suggestion for a central bank of issue and reserve. There has been nothing given out before that would explain it. It may be that he would leave the present Government reserves in the reserve banks and use the central bank to issue currency for times of stress in such quantities as were desired, or it may be that he intended to suggest the establishment of a Government bank, such as exists in England and France, which would take over the National bank reserves and would also issue the currency. Of course, it would perhaps be easier to regulate the reserve of the Government if it were all in one place and there would be no question of the security of all the money issued if the Government were behind it. The suggestion seems to be in keeping with the idea of centralization which has been exhibited by the administration."

TO MAKE OUR ADMIRALS RANK WITH OTHERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Senator Jarnor of Missouri today introduced a bill creating the rank of vice admiral in the navy.

Should it become a law it will permit the promotion of Rear-Admiral Evans to the proposed rank, but the measure is not intended to accomplish that alone, its purpose being to provide for a rank that, when the navy is represented abroad, does not render it necessary for the commander to allow officers of other countries whose navies are of less importance to take precedence over him.
